

Towing Guru revolutionizes online marketing for the towing industry.

By leveraging years of experience in online marketing, Towing Guru has launched an internet marketing package designed specifically for towing companies to help business owners capitalize on a growing number of online towing searches.

Towing Guru has created an extensive towing marketing package that is ready to take towing companies online. This package was designed specifically to help towing companies generate more revenue by having their towing businesses get found online. In almost any city the term 'towing' is searched thousands of times every month. Towing Guru's Local PowerPackage makes sure that when people are searching for towing services online, their clients are first to be found. Rony Mirzaians, Director of Marketing comments, "We've implemented all the latest technology so that our towing clients can really get an edge on the competition." The Local PowerPackage program offered by Towing Guru is a complete online marketing solution. In addition to clients being listed in hundreds of search engines, this marketing package includes a free website. For companies that already have a website they offer a free search engine optimization evaluation to make sure their client's sites are completely optimized.

Towing Guru is not only helping their towing clients achieve an online presence, but a stronger presence than their competitors. With a powerful position in local search engines such as Google, towing companies gain new clients every month. In addition to a free website and listings in all the major search engines, the Local PowerPackage offers the option for towing companies to run online promotions and coupons, a place for consumers to leave reviews, social media setup, analytics and 30 minutes of direct consultation per month. This towing marketing package is all inclusive and will help towing businesses develop a strong, online presence.

Rony Mirzaians comments, "Simply put, we know your business. We have experience working with towing service providers and are experts in online towing advertising. " Towing Guru is setting themselves apart by focusing on an industry they know and understand. Their knowledge combined with the tools they have created for successfully propelling their towing clients above their competitors in local search engines like Google makes them the best choice for towing companies looking at taking advantage of local online searches.
